About:

The science is clear: we are facing an unprecedented global emergency. We are in a life or death situation of our own making. Politicians have declared a climate emergency but words alone are not enough. We must act now before it is too late.

Locally, our children have 10-15% smaller lung capacity than their peers due to air pollution. That is why we are calling on people to join the call for climate action. Friday 20 September is a global day of action over the climate emergency.

Join us at any of our locations to fight for the future of our planet.
